Sous Raccoon gets local co-op on December 3, so now you can get fired with a friend

BANGKOK, Thailand, November 26, 2026 - Novice Flow and Rising Tide Publishing announced today that Sous Raccoon gets local co-op on December 3. Two players can run the kitchen together on one screen with one copy of the game, alongside the online co-op for up to four that's already in. The same day, the game goes 30% off on Steam, its lowest price yet, ahead of the Steam Winter Sale.

One player preps ingredients and runs them to Chef. The other serves the tables and grabs the rolling pin when the Monster Wave alarm goes off. Every customer who gets hurt makes Chef angrier, and if it gets bad enough he bursts into flames and fires you both. Whacked a customer by accident? Dance next to them. It heals them.

From December 3, Sous Raccoon is 30% off on Steam, down from $14.99 to $10.49.

Four Thai streamers got the whole team fired

In October, Thai streamers HEARTROCKER, iamSometimes, NAKLAS GAMER and BIRDBORNE played a four-player online session that passed 700,000 views across their four streams. One of them left mid-shift to fight a whale boss, nobody was guarding the customers, and Chef fired the whole team.

What's in the December 3 update

- Local co-op: two players on one screen, on one copy of the game.
- Online co-op for up to four players, unchanged.
- 30% off on Steam from December 3, the biggest discount the game has had.

About the game

You're Elmo, a raccoon thief turned sous chef, working for a Chef with a very short fuse. Cook the orders, serve the customers and keep the monsters off them long enough to finish the shift. Four kitchens, each with its own layout, hazards and monsters: a ship with tight decks and nowhere to run, a beach of docks and sand, a jungle full of rope bridges and things in the trees, and a fourth you'll have to see for yourself. Earn coins, knock more out of passing birds, and spend them on perks between shifts. Every run plays different.

About Novice Flow

Novice Flow is a team of eight students in Bangkok who came together to build the kind of game they'd love to play themselves. Sous Raccoon is the game they always dreamed of making.
